

Chili Cook Off raises funds for Volunteers in Medicine

heraldtimesonline.com/news/community/chili-cook-off-raises-funds-for-volunteers-in-medicine/article_a24742f5-18b3-57d9-9b9d-a879c7409722.html
Submitted to the H-T

April 23, 2018

Volunteers in Medicine would like to thank the Indiana University Social Work Student Association for a $500 donation from its second annual Chili Cook Off.

The ambitious and creative club organized the event, enlisting department faculty members to cook their favorite chili recipes. More than 50 students paid an admission fee, sampled the chilis and voted for the best chili by placing money in a tip jar. All proceeds were donated to VIM.

The community-operated, community-owned and community-financed Volunteers in Medicine clinic provides free primary and urgent health care for medically underserved residents of Monroe and Owen counties.

The VIM clinic offers an on-site dental clinic, specialists, and free medications as well. For more information or to volunteer for the Volunteers in Medicine clinic, visit www.vimmonroecounty.org online or email info@VIMMonroeCounty.org. To make a donation to the clinic, contact the Bloomington Health Foundation at 812-558-2485.